hello!

I am a front-end developer/designer who is passionate, determined and enthusiastic about coding! My journey began when I wanted to build a personal website and I didn't have the skillset, so I set out to learn more! After the first initial steps into css, html and js I was hooked. Although coding can be challenging sometimes, I love building and working on sites, learning new languages and techniques and problem-solving to get the results needed. I've graduated from a full-stack coding bootcamp as well as being self taught and below is a list of languages and programs I use in my projects. In addition to coding I enjoy graphic design, walking my dog and learning langauges such as French and Japanese.
